Each local group is moderated by a local volunteer.
Future Friendly	http://www.futurefriendly.co.uk/
We are no longer unaware of the impact that we're having on the world around us and most of us care enough to be interested in finding out ways we can help. When we're talking about such a global problem though, it's difficult to see what we can do on an everyday basis and how our own actions can make a difference. Many of us ask ourselves questions like 'how can I change what I do in my life, without stopping living?' 'How do I find out how energy saving tips relate to me?' or 'how do I know what to do to make an impact?'

Live Lightly | <http://www.livelightly.bt.com/>

It's easy to think "only the big things matter" and "what I do doesn't make any difference" - but it isn't true. Of course international and government-level action is essential to tackle climate change. We can also make a difference - as individuals, as families or in other groups, and as a community. We can choose to live lightly - taking personal responsibility for the actions within our own control.

(The) L D A's Green Homes Initiative: | <http://www.londonclimatechange.co.uk/greenhomes/home/>

Greater London homes produce 40% of the city's carbon dioxide (CO2) emissions – which contribute to Climate Change. The Green Homes website contains information, help and advice for homeowners, tenants and landlords on simple green practices that will help reduce the city's CO2 emissions and achieve the bold targets from the Climate Change Action Plan. It's time to make changes in London now. The Green Homes website from the London Development Agency can help.

We Like Swaps | <http://www.welikeswaps.com>

Our obsession with newness is literally costing us the earth... the age of prudence has long since gone; in the good old days we would fix it, sew it, or super glue it back together. If we weren't too proud to beg - we would even borrow it. Now, we spend our money on items that we don't really need, hoard them away and when we have filled our domiciles to the rafters with ... and then we tip them into the bin.
